Best Practices in 21st Century Education

Learn how superintendents across the county are integrating the 4Cs (communication, critical thinking, collaboration and creativity) into their district culture.

Breakfast with EdLeader21

We’re serving up coffee, continental breakfast, and conversation around the 4Cs. Join Ken Kay, CEO and Valerie Greenhill, Chief Learning Officer of EdLeader21 along with district leaders from across the country to find out how the 4Cs are transforming education. Also, find out how you can obtain newly developed rubrics for the 4Cs.

This event provides EdLeader21 members and non-members an opportunity to meet and network with each other, ask questions, and learn about work being done by member schools and districts around 21st century education.

What’s New in 21st Century Education?

Join us for a highly engaging conversation focused on the latest developments in 21st century education.

Ken Kay (EdLeader21) and Kathy Hurley (Pearson Foundation) will lead a discussion with two visionary superintendents: Elizabeth Celania-Fagen (Douglas County School District) and Vincent Matthews (San Jose Unified School District). Hear about the work they have done to redefine what 21st century education means and how it has changed district practices.
